Nurse Declares She Did Not Steal Articles From Gay Home.

LAWRENCE, Mass., June 25.—Mrs. Besgle M. Skeels Lundgren, the nurse, who is on trial for murder because of the death of Miss Florence W. Gay, resumed to-day her story. The little weman, emaciated by a recent illness, was carried to her place by court attendants. She appeared pale, but her physician said the only effect of the mental strain.

Mrs. Lundgren continued a recital of the circumstances connected with the illness and death of Miss Gay in December, 1917. She testified that instead of attempting to remain with the sick woman whom, it is charged, she was dowing with arsente, ashe had sought relief from her duties in the Gay home several days before Miss Gay died. She told Mrs. Edith M. Luce, a relative of the Gays, she said, that she was so tired she could not stand the strain much longer, and it was at Mrs. Luce's request that she stayed on.

She asserted she gave no medical attendance of any kind to Miss Gay for two days before death. On the day that Miss Gay died, Mrs. Lundgren said, she was called into the sick room by Mrs. Luce and found the patient unconscious. Then she raised Miss Gay's head and did everything to make her comfortable, because she loved her, she asserted.

In June, 1917, when a rash broke out on her neck after she had worn Miss Gay's raincoat, acording to Mrs. Lundgren, Miss Gay said it looked like the rash she had on her own face. Miss Gay's recommended it be treated with Fowler's "My brother Nichola such a tale of adventure, excitement and good times in the army overseas that Nichola decided yesterday it was not too late for him to see the sights of the old world.

"As God is my judge," she exclaimed when shown articles alleged to have been stolen from the Abbott Academy students, "I never saw those things."

The defendant denied having obtained any insurance money from the deaths of her relatives. She sobbed when she identified a coat which she said she had bought for her mother. She asserted no opportunity was given by the police to make an explanation in regard to the goods and that it appeared as if they were trying to "railroad her."

Mrs. Lundgren testified that when she reached New Jersey in response to a despatch telling of the serious illness of her brother, Albert J. Wilkins, for whose death by poison she is also charged, she was told by physicians that he could not live. She said she would not let him die. ### ALL ARMY UNITS TO BE HOME SOON

Special Despatch to THE SUN.

WASHINGTON, June 25.—Secretary Baker said to-day that American troops were to be brought back so speedily from France that the War Department had decided to curtail permission for officers from the United States to go abroad and also to restrict the granting of passports to families of officers in the American Expeditionary Force.

It is probable that the bulk of the American Army of Occupation will be ordered home in the near future, according to Mr. Baker. He said a part, if not all, would be ordered home as soon as it was definitely decided whether a specific number or any was to be re-Special Desputch to THE SUN.

President-elect of Brazil Kisses American Flag at Banquet in His Honor.

GREETED BY THE MAYOR

Rodman Wanamaker, C. M. Schwab and E. H. Gary Among the Speakers.

The recently created Mayor's Committee on Receptions to Distinguished Guests essayed its first public function Gueste essayed its first public function last night when it entertained—Dr. Epitacio Pessoa, Prasident-elect of Brazil, and members of his party at a dinner in the grand ballroom of the Waldorf-Astoria. Five hundred persons waved their napkins and cheered when the guest of honor pressed the folds of an American flag to his lips and kissed them after they had been draped about his shoulders by Rodman Wanamaker, chairman of the committee, who was toastmaster.

The flag was brought into the ball-room by officers of the police reserves, who marched forward with it to the dais where the speakers were seated. When they had handed it to Mr. Wanamaker he turned toward Dr. Pessoa and said: "We give you our sincere affection and wrap around you the flag of our country—the flag that will stand for you."

Dr. Pessoa was unable to make himself heard for some time in the tumuit which followed his salute to the colors. After expressing his gratitude for the reception given him, he began speaking in a distinct voice.

"Five years of war, a war which will always figure in history as the greatest calamity which ever struck mankind, seemed to upset irreparably the com-mercial relations between nations, but world progress is returning to its pre-vious course," said he. "It will shortly reacquire its old time splendor.

"I feel certain that in this grandies

Judge Elbert H. Gary, chairman of the United State Steel Corporation, said the world had more of the present and future to consider than the past.

"We believe the war is ended and that the worst enemy of civilization has been defeated, and we believe the Powers of central Europe will sign the treaty because they are compelled to," said he. "This is the first time in the history of the world a defeated enemy has refused to sign a treaty because she has refused to sign a treaty because she was dissatisfied with the terms.

"I feel certain that in this grandiose task of reconstruction the chief share will fall to the United States, and especially to the city of New York, a marvellous centre of activity and wealth. It am sufficiently aware of the energy of your race, whose initiative knows no bounds and whose tenacity knows no bounds and whose tenacity knows no obstacles, to affirm it. Brazil wants to contribute, and Brazil will contribute, to did this work of peace and prosperity. We therefore step toward the same goal, and thus our aim should be that of identifying our efforts and drawing closer our traditional friendship. I take great to the greatness and prosperity of the city of New York."

The official speech of welcome was made by Mayor Hylan, who declared that the city was honored in having Dr. Pessoa as its guest. He continued:

As a result of the great world war. Pessoa as its guest. He continued:

As a result of the great world war. North and South, clapsed hands and renewed the pledge that liberty shall not perish. The common danger drew us together more closely for the preservation of the principle of democracy, a principle which might be called presentently American. MIDDLETOWN, Conn., June 25.—Mary Archer, 24, daughter of Mrs. Amy Arther Gilligan, on trial for the murder by polson of Franklin R. Andrews in the Archer Home for Aged in Windsor, was on the witness stand to-day and pleaded in behalf of her mother.

She testified that in her opinion her nother was insane May 30, 1914, when Mr. Andrews died, for she complained of a pressure in the back of her head She was 14 years old when she learned that her mother took morphine pills. Sh took six one-quarter grain pills four times a day. When the Federal law went into effect in 1915 she had a big jar stored away. Mary often found her mother in a stupor after taking the pills. Miss Archer said her mother was dazed and at times staggered about. Man times she ate no breakfast but mor phine pills. Her financial dealings were irrational, the daughter said, and she owed money all over Windsor.

The liberal spirit of Mrs. Gilligan was illustrated by the testimony of her sisters. According to them she gave $1,000 to the Catholic church in Windsor and $200 to the Protestant minister, because she did not think he got enough salary. When she was young and teaching school she would stop a bakery wagon as it passed the school and dismiss school and have a picule for the children
